

After March 10, Now What?

A Forum Sponsored by the Ujima Peoples Progress Party (UPP) in collaboration with the Coppin State University Urban Studies Program

March 10, 2016 marked an important date. Persons convicted of a felony that completed serving a court-ordered imprisonment sentence now could register to vote. The burning question remains. Now what? A right to vote does not automatically mean a good job, and a decent place to live. Too often these newly pinned voters face similar oppressive conditions that they faced before their incarceration. How can we address these issues?

The panel will help answer these burning issues, supply information on returning programs, cite what these programs need and comment on the issues of mass incarceration and how to address it.

When: Saturday, April 23, 2016

Where: Coppin State University, Health & Human Services Building (HHSB 103)

Time: 6-8 p.m.

Program:

Introduction: Moderator-Daan Oji, UPP

Panel:

William Gardner, Release Aging People in Prison

Diamonte Brown, Out for Justice

Jennifer Laskin, Education for Autonomy

Todd Crosby

Christopher Irvin, The Lazarus Rite

Etta Myers, Maryland Communities United

Israel Cason, I Can't, We Can

Q and A—Audience

For more information, contact Dr. Ken Morgan, Asst. Prof., Urban Studies Program (410 951-4187) or the UPP (443 826-9654).